Olivia Moz

Senior Manager

EY Parthenon

Olivia is an outstanding valuation professional whose technical expertise, commercial judgement and leadership maturity make her a deserving member of The Rising 20.

She has led critical valuation and IFRS 3 purchase price allocation workstreams on complex, high-value domestic and cross-border transactions, including Gold Fields' C$2,4 billion Osisko and A$5,2 billion Gold Road acquisitions and Premier's R6,5 billion acquisition of RFG. Her responsibilities have encompassed financial modelling and the valuation of businesses, mining assets and intangible assets, as well as coordinating multidisciplinary teams and presenting conclusions to senior executives, audit committees and external auditors.

Olivia's strength lies in her ability to translate complex technical analysis into commercially relevant conclusions. She has resolved challenging valuation issues, aligned accounting, tax and valuation workstreams, and developed tailored models and scenario-based frameworks that strengthen conclusions while mitigating execution and audit risks. Her ability to navigate demanding technical challenges without losing sight of transaction objectives demonstrates analytical rigour and commercial maturity.

Beyond technical delivery, Olivia is a trusted adviser, empathetic leader and committed mentor. She takes ownership under pressure and actively develops those around her, while contributing to strategy, training and industry initiatives. Her performance has earned the firm's highest internal feedback rating, complemented by client recognition for the quality of her work.

Combining specialist expertise with sound judgement, collaborative leadership and a commitment to developing others, Olivia consistently contributes beyond her immediate responsibilities. Her strong track record and ability to build trusted relationships position her as a promising future leader in South Africa's M&A profession.
